GEORGIA PARTNERSHIP
FOR EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION

CRITICAL ISSUES FORUM
Thursday, November 17, 2016
10:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta

“Opportunity, Prosperity & Growth: Education’s Role”

The economic vitality and prosperity of communities and states depend on a robust and vibrant public education system. An investment in public education is an economic development strategy. A region that does not allow for upward mobility and the realization of the American Dream for its citizens, all its citizens, will not realize economic growth and prosperity in the long-term. The Hamilton Project’s Thirteen Economic Facts about Social Mobility and the Role of Education makes the point that the income divide in our nation has increased substantially over the last thirty-five years, in large part due to a growing gap in education opportunities for high- and low-income students. The inequality of income for this current generation may mean inequality of opportunity for the next, thus impeding economic growth and broad participation in that growth.

This forum will examine the roles and responsibilities of civic, business and community leaders in addressing issues of equity, mobility, and the inclusion of all residents in building a strong education system that leads to a growing economy for all.

Plan to join the Georgia Partnership for its November Critical Issues Forum. Program participants include --

- David Altig, Executive Vice President & Director of Research, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta
- Stuart Andreason, Senior Community and Economic Development Advisor, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta
- Carol Lewis, President, Communities in Schools of Georgia
